

BOY CALLED FATHER "FAGIN"

Bad Little Willie McCarty, Held for Stealing, Has Brought Serious Trouble Upon His Parent, Michael McCarty.

URGED TO ROB, HE SAID.

Michael J. McCarty, who was arrested by Policeman Fletcher at his home, No. 289 Front street, on a charge of teaching his little boy, Willie, to steal, is in the opinion of his neighbors an honest, hardworking, pocket-book maker. Magistrate Plummer, however, when McCarty was arraigned to-day, held him for trial in $500 bail.

Willie McCarty is only eleven years old. He has the face of a cherub and sings like an angel, say the neighbors who know him. But Willie got into bad company at an early age. He developed a propensity for crawling under the folding gates of dry-goods stores, breaking glass doors and slipping out again with a bundle of miscellaneous articles larger than himself.

Caught Red-Handed.

Last Thursday night Policeman Fletcher, of the Oak street station, caught him red-handed crawling out of Max Cohen's store at No. 113 South street, with a bundle of umbrellas under his arm. Willie had two companions on the lookout, and the warning note was sounded before Fletcher could make an arrest. Then followed a long stern chase, which ended in Willie's unconditional surrender.

The other boys escaped, but "Sleuth" Fletcher trailed them down and arrested both of them in Brooklyn on Friday. They are John Price, eleven years old, and George Donigan, fifteen years old. When Willie McCarty was arrested he made the assertion that he was taking the umbrellas home to his "old man." The other boys threw light on the subject by saying that they had been making burglary a paying business enterprise, and that Michael McCarty, Willie's father, took charge of the goods. When Willie heard of this statement he veered round and stoutly denied the assertion.

The Gerry Society made a few investigations, aided by Fletcher, and many things were unearthed. A bundle of umbrellas was recovered from a firm in Rose street who had bought them from some persons whose identity is kept quiet. These umbrellas were the property of Charles Fitzmaurice, whose store at No. 173 William street was robbed by the "crawling gang" some time ago.

Boy Paid the Rent.

Fletcher also learned that on one occasion when McCarty was behind with his rent the boy fought and killed a considerable amount of money, saying that he had found it. The Oak street policeman knew otherwise, but did not say anything about it in court. Upon the result of these investigations a warrant was issued for the elder McCarty.

The boys have been in the care of the Gerry Society, and returned to their court to-day, and sent back to their temporary residence in a patrol-wagon after the case had been disposed of. Mrs. McCarty was also in court.

HIS PIES WON A BRIDE FOR HIM.

Bolder Cook Whose Love Romance Was Founded on His Toothsome Pastry.

James Wimbles was formerly a mess cook for Co. E, Fourth New Jersey Regiment, and met Miss Caroline Knapp, of Hoboken, when his regiment was at Sea Girt waiting for orders to start for the Philippines. The young woman was attracted by the delicious pastry prepared by the army cook and expressed the wish to meet a man who could prepare "such beautiful pies." Her unspoken thoughts in this romance are not recorded, but she may have at that early time dreamed of occupying a portion of the household drudgeries.

The Fourth Regiment did not get the expected order to move to the Philippines, but Wimbles joined a regiment that did. He served the Government in the Philippines for many months and delighted many an officer and private with the same brand of pie that had kept his memory fresh in "the girl he left behind."

Wimbles returned to the United States and attended a party in Hoboken several weeks ago. The quality of the young soldier's pies was known and his host asked him to display his handiwork, so he rolled up his sleeves and went at it. When the steaming pastry came from the oven and was ready to serve there was a look of anxiety on the face of Miss Knapp. But one bite was sufficient to show her that the months of absence had only made him more proficient in the art. It is recorded that that night he asked for her hand. The wedding occurred this week.

MRS. ROBINSON BETTER.

President's Sister Is Progressing Favorably, Her Doctor Says. Dr. G. Wynkoop, of No. 128 Madison avenue, who is Mrs. Douglas Robinson's family physician, said this morning that his patient, who is President Roosevelt's sister, is progressing very favorably.

"Mrs. Robinson is not suffering from any disease," he said. "She has a good deal of cold and is somewhat run down, but that is all. Probably in ten days or a fortnight she will be quite recovered."

RISE IN THE PRICE OF KISSES

Rosenberg Sent Stamps for Small Order of Sweet Smacks but Sadie Cohen Thinks They Were Worth $10,000.

EMBRACED HER MOTHER, TOO

A breach of promise suit for $10,000 has been brought against Harry Rosenberg, whose sister, Mrs. Julia Roth, is the defendant in a divorce suit, in which letters written with invisible ink play an important part. The damage suit is brought by Miss Sadie Cohen, No. 70 East One Hundred and Twelfth street, and was prompted by the announcement of Rosenberg's engagement to Miss Nellie Hynes, No. 23 West One Hundred and Eleventh street.

For three years, it is claimed, Rosenberg, who is a sergeant in the Eighth Regiment, has been a suitor for the hand of Miss Cohen. The gossip of friends, it is charged, constantly connected their names, and it was considered only a matter of time until the engagement would be announced. It was a sad blow, then, when Rosenberg's engagement to Miss Hynes was made public two weeks ago.

When the case is called for trial Mrs. Cohen will tell how when she lost her two sons and was bowed down with grief young Rosenberg put his arm around, and, calling her Mother Cohen, said he would be her son. She took this as a declaration of his intention to wed her daughter. In addition, Miss Cohen's attorney will submit the following letters to show that Rosenberg expected to make the young woman his wife:

"Sweetheart Sadie: Enclosed please find eight stamps. Each stamp represents a kiss. Your dear HARRY."

"My Dear Sadie: Just finished making a frame for your dear picture. My mind is always on you, the only one in all this wide world I think anything of. I cannot sleep as long as you are out of my sight. May God watch over you until I am able to look into your eyes and say you are my darling wife."

"Now you know how I feel, and you have everything in black and white. Good-by, darling. HARRY."

Miss Cohen says she still loves Rosenberg. For three years, she says, she has waited for him, paying no attention to other suitors.

LAW ON WOMEN TEACHERS' SIDE.

Schlivinski's Plea for a Single Eligible List Dismissed by Justice Diokey.

It was undoubtedly good law and most gallant law, for it saved the women who aspire to teach school many a good job. Justice Diokey made the decision in the Brooklyn Supreme Court to-day. Charles Schlivinski asked the Justice for a mandamus compelling the school authorities to make one eligible list containing the names of both men and women who want to be teachers. At present there are two. Schlivinski alleged that he is at the head of the men's list, and that while 500 positions have been filled this year all except nine have gone to women. One list would make it certain that he would get a job. Assistant Corporation Counsel Brewster argued that women were cheaper than men and better fitted for most of the places in the schools. To make one list, he said, would handicap the School Board and cost the city a lot of money. Justice Diokey decided that he was right. The Justice also refused to give James Cusack a mandamus to compel the School Board to put him back in his job as principal of an evening high school in Brooklyn.
